Design, Materials & Manufacturing Engineering

for

Sustainable Development

(ICDMMESD-2024)

May 9-10, 2024

Website: <https://icdmimesd.org/>

About the Conference

The sustainable development of technologies is a big challenge today. The rate of progress is so fast that associated techniques as well as technologies must be fast enough to match up with the progress rate. At the same time, it is a necessity of society and surroundings that equilibrium is not disturbed. Hence, sustainable development of techniques and technologies is necessary. The conference will provide a big platform for scientists, engineers, researchers, and academicians to have a fruitful discussion on different aspects of design, materials, and manufacturing engineering to achieve the sustainability goals and development of society. Some of the conventional approaches will also be discussed in the conference for better clarity of the existing technologies. The conference will also work on the industry-academia differences and set an atmosphere for bridging the gap between academia and industry for the sustainable development. Industry can contribute a lot to achieving sustainability goals with the help of academia. By hosting such an international conference at Graphic Era Deemed to be University shows its commitment towards the sustainable development of society.
