Dr. K N Prabhu

The resource person for the talk was Dr. K N Prabhu. He is currently working as a Professor from November 2007 onwards in the Department of Metallurgical & Materials Engineering, National Institute of Technology Karnataka (NITK), Surathkal, India. His responsibilities in this post include teaching both undergraduate and postgraduate students in metallurgical/materials engineering and research. He has experience of 32 Years in the teaching field. His research field include Transport Phenomena in Materials Processing with special interest in solidification and quenching; Heat transfer; Lead-free solders – Wettability and Solder Joint Reliability; Nanofluids; Thermal interface and Energy Storage materials; Melt treatment of Al-Si alloys. He has published 192 Journal 5 Book chapters and also guided 13 Research scholars to complete their PhDs and also 5 are ongoing.

Report of Seminar on Research Culture and writing a Technical Paper

By

Dr K N Prabhu

Professor

Department of Metallurgical and Materials Engg

NITK Surathkal

Departmental Co-ordinators with Dr. K N Prabhu

A One-Day Seminar on “Research Culture and writing a Technical Paper” was done by Dr K N Prabhu on 23/2/2017 in association with Department of Mechanical Engineering and Civil Engineering. The seminar was conducted for the benefit of faculties of AIET.

The seminar was mostly concentrated on the overall development of the faculty not only as a teaching professional but also as a Research Fellow. He discussed on various aspects of the research and also different fields of research where no one has ever done. He also urged faculties to take up the projects from government and private sector so that there will be an exposure to the work environment.

He also discussed how ancient research were conducted without thinking about the consequences and end results.

Faculty of AIET Present During the session

Dr K N Prabhu presenting the session

Department of Mechanical Engineering Alva's Institute of Engineering and Technology

E-mail: aietmech08@gmail.com

Outcome: The session was highly influential as it covered most of the topics related to writing a paper either as a research scholar or as guide to student. The talk covered very important aspects of the research paper writing like the introduction, literature survey, research methodology, conclusions etc. It also included a session on finding the research papers for writing the review papers.

The session included Faculties from AIET. It was beneficial for research scholars who are very much into the research field.
