INITIATIVES UNDER LANGUAGE AND COMMUNICATION SKILLS

PREAMBLE

Proficiency in a language makes networking more effective, allows you to make the most of opportunities and begin potentially profitable conversations. Realizing the need for students to achieve language proficiency for better communication, Institution has taken various capacity building and skills enhancement initiatives in Language and communication skills viz. Business English Certificate course from University of Cambridge, Bakthivedanta Academy for Cultural and Character Education (BACCE). SoftX, a language communication tool helped the students to improve their speaking, listening and reading skills where students were able to access audio and visual contents from the experts.

Examination tasks/syllabus

B1 Preliminary
Reading and Writing

READING

PART 1: Multiple choice

In this part, there is an emphasis on understanding short real-world notices, messages, etc.

Each correct answer in Part 1 receives 1 mark.

In this part there are five short texts, each of which is accompanied by a multiple-choice question containing three options. In all cases the information will be brief and clear, and the difficulty of the task will not lie in understanding context but in identifying or interpreting meaning.

A wide variety of text types, representative of those likely to be encountered in international business, can appear in this part, for example, emails, advertisements, internet newsflashes.

Each text will be complete and have a recognisable context.

PART 2 : Matching

In this part, there is an emphasis on reading for detailed comprehension.

Each correct answer in Part 2 receives 1 mark.

This is a matching task comprising one text and five questions, which are often descriptions of people's requirements. Candidates are required to match each question to an appropriate part of the text, labelled A–H. (As there are only five questions, some of the options act as distractors.) The testing focus of this part is vocabulary and meaning, using skimming and scanning skills.

PART 3: Matching

In this part, there is an emphasis on interpreting visual information.

Each correct answer in Part 3 receives 1 mark.

This task consists of eight graphs or charts (or one or more graphics with eight distinct elements) and five questions. Each question is a description of a particular graphic (or element of a graphic) and candidates are expected to match the questions to their corresponding graphs, which are labelled A-H.

PART 4: Right/Wrong/Doesn't say

This part tests the candidate's ability to locate detailed factual information.

Each correct answer in Part 4 receives 1 mark.

This task consists of a text accompanied by seven 3-option multiple-choice questions. Each question presents a statement and candidates are expected to indicate whether the statement is A Right or B Wrong according to the text, or whether the information is not given in the text (C Doesn't say). Candidates are not expected to understand every word in the text but they should be able to pick out salient points and infer meaning where words in the text are unfamiliar. The questions refer to factual information in the text, but candidates are required to do some processing in order to answer the questions correctly.

PART 5: Multiple choice

This part tests candidates' reading for gist and specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 5 receives 1 mark.

This part presents a single text accompanied by six multiple-choice comprehension questions. The text is informative and is often taken from a leaflet or a newspaper or magazine article.

Candidates are expected to employ more complex reading strategies in this task, in that they should demonstrate their ability to extract relevant information, to read for gist and detail, to scan the text for specific information, and to understand the purpose of the writer and the audience for which the text is intended.

PART 6 Multiple-choice cloze

This part tests candidates' grammatical accuracy and understanding of text structure.

Each correct answer in Part 6 receives 1 mark.

This is a multiple-choice cloze test. Candidates have to select the correct word from three options to complete 12 gaps. This part has a predominantly grammatical focus and tests candidates' understanding of the general and detailed meaning of a text, and in particular their ability to analyse structural patterns.

PART 7: Note completion

This part tests candidates' ability to transfer information.

Each correct answer in Part 7 receives 1 mark.

Candidates are given two short texts, for example a memo and an advertisement, and are asked to complete a form based on this material. There are five gaps, which should be completed with a word, a number or a short phrase. In this part, candidates are tested on their ability to extract relevant information and complete a form accurately.

For this part, candidates need to transfer their answers in capital letters to an answer sheet.

WRITING

PART 1: This part tests the candidate's ability to produce an internal communication in response to input.

Task type and focus

An internal company communication; this means a piece of communication with a colleague or colleagues within the company on a business-related matter; the delivery medium may be a note, message, memo or email.

The range of functions in the task includes rearranging appointments, asking for permission and giving instructions.

DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Task format

Candidates are asked to produce a concise piece of internal company communication of between 30 and 40 words, using a written prompt.

The text must be produced in the form of a note, message, memo or email. Candidates are given the layout of memos and emails (e.g. to/from/date/subject) on the question paper, and need not copy this out as part of their answer.

The rubric specifies the reason for writing and the target reader, and bullet points explain what content points have to be included. Relevant ideas for one or more of these points will have to be invented by the candidate.

PART 2: This part tests the candidate's ability to produce a piece of business correspondence in response to input.

Task type and focus

A piece of business correspondence; this means correspondence with somebody outside the company (e.g. a customer or supplier) on a business-related matter; the delivery medium may be letter, fax or email.

The range of functions in the task includes apologising and offering compensation, making or altering reservations, dealing with requests and giving information about a product.

Task format

Candidates are asked to produce an extended piece of business correspondence of between 60 and 80 words. This task involves the processing of a short text, such as a letter or advertisement, in order to respond to it. A number of bulleted content points below the text clearly indicate what should be included in the answer. Some of this information will need to be invented by the candidate.

Where the delivery medium specified for a Part 2 answer is a letter, candidates need not include postal addresses in their answer. Similarly, where the delivery medium specified is an email, candidates need not include to/from/subject details. Although the use of some key words is inevitable, candidates should not 'lift' phrases from the question paper to use in their answers. They would not receive credit for the language in these phrases.

B1 Preliminary

Listening

PART 1: 3-option multiple choice

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 1 receives 1 mark.

A series of eight short conversations or monologues: each heard twice.

The eight questions in this part of the paper are 3-option multiple-choice questions. For each question, candidates hear a short conversation or monologue, typically lasting around 15 to 30 seconds. Each monologue or dialogue is repeated on the recording in order to give candidates a chance to check their answers. The multiple-choice options may be textual or they may be in the form of pictures, graphs or diagrams.

In the extracts in Part 1, candidates are being tested on their understanding of spoken English used in a range of situations and on their ability to extract factual information.

Alternatively, they may have to identify a trend in a graph, establish the speaker's reason for phoning, or identify feelings and opinions. In every case it will be necessary for candidates to follow the conversation closely.

PART 2: Note completion

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 2 receives 1 mark.

Short telephone conversation: heard twice.

This part consists of a short conversation, typically lasting around a minute and a half, which contains factual information. On the question paper there is a form, table, chart or set of notes with seven gaps where information is missing. Candidates have to fill in each of the gaps. The answers may include dates, prices, percentages or figures. This part has a numerical focus and sometimes there are names that are spelled out on the recording; answers to these questions have to be written with correct spelling.

PART 3: Note completion

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 3 receives 1 mark.

Monologue: heard twice.

Candidates hear a monologue. On the question paper there is a set of notes or a form with gaps. There are seven gaps to fill in and the answers may be one or two words. On occasion, the key to one of the gaps may be a date.

PART 4: 3-option multiple choice

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for gist and for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 4 receives 1 mark.

Conversation/interview/discussion: heard twice.

This part, which lasts about 3 minutes, contains a longer listening text which generally takes the form of an interview, or a discussion between two or possibly more speakers. There are eight 3-option multiple-choice questions on the question paper and these are always in a written format. In this part of the Listening component, candidates are being tested on their ability to understand the gist of a longer text and to extract detailed and specific information as required by the questions. They may also be tested on the speakers' opinions.

B1 Preliminary
Speaking

PART 1 : Interview

This part tests the candidates' ability to respond to questions and to express opinions. In the first part of the test, the interlocutor addresses each candidate in turn and asks them questions about themselves and their opinions. The questions will be slightly different for each candidate, and candidates are not addressed in strict sequence. In this part of the test, candidates are being tested on their ability to talk briefly about themselves, to provide concise information on where they come from and their job/studies. Candidates are then required to perform simple functions such as agreeing and disagreeing, and expressing opinions and preferences in the second part of Part 1, which focuses on a business-related topic.

PART 2: Long turn

This part tests the candidates' ability to sustain a 'long turn'.

The second part of the test is a 'mini-presentation'. In this part, each candidate is given a choice of two topics and has 1 minute to prepare a piece of extended speech lasting approximately 1 minute. After each candidate has finished speaking the next candidate is asked which of the bullet points they think is the most important. In this part of the test candidates are being tested on their ability to sustain their talk accurately and appropriately.

PART 3: Collaborative task

This part tests the candidates' ability to communicate with one another, negotiate, initiate, and respond in an appropriate way. The third part of the test is a conversation between the candidates. The interlocutor outlines a scenario and provides prompts in the form of black and white pictures or written text to help the candidates. The candidates are asked to speak for about 2 minutes. The interlocutor supports the conversation, as appropriate, and then asks further questions related to the main theme. In this part of the test, candidates are being tested on their ability to interact appropriately using relevant functional language and strategies.

BHAKTHIVEDANTA ACADEMY FOR CULTURAL AND CHARACTER EDUCATION

BACCE, Bhaktivedanta Academy for Cultural & Character Education is conducting a 'Advanced Foundation Course in Personal Holistic Competence' for the first year Engineering students of Alvas Institute of Engineering Technology in the 2018 academic year. The proposed course is for each of the six batches of the first years. The remuneration for each batch was fixed at Rs. 56000 (Fifty six thousand only) per semester. We would have 28 sessions per semester for every batch. We had started the course this September 2018 and completed the first half of the course by January 2019. We have completed the stipulated 28 hours per batch for this semester. We would request your good selves to remit the remuneration at the earliest.

Following is the summary

- Total no of proposed sessions = 28 sessions/ batch/ academic semester
- Remuneration for 1 batch = Rs. 56000 / batch / year (Fifty six thousand only)
- Remuneration for all the 6 batches for semester = $56000 \times 6 = 336000$ (Three Lakh thirty six thousand only) for one semester
- Total number of sessions conducted = 168 hrs (28hrs * 6 batches) (Find the attached Xls for the details)
- Total Amount paid as on date (14-01-2019)= 90000 (ninety thousand only)
- Total payable amount as on date(14-01-2019) = 2,46,000 (two lakh and forty six thousand only)

Examination tasks/syllabus

B1 Preliminary
Reading and Writing

READING

PART 1: Multiple choice

In this part, there is an emphasis on understanding short real-world notices, messages, etc.

Each correct answer in Part 1 receives 1 mark.

In this part there are five short texts, each of which is accompanied by a multiple-choice question containing three options. In all cases the information will be brief and clear, and the difficulty of the task will not lie in understanding context but in identifying or interpreting meaning.

A wide variety of text types, representative of those likely to be encountered in international business, can appear in this part, for example, emails, advertisements, internet newsflashes.

Each text will be complete and have a recognisable context.

PART 2 : Matching

In this part, there is an emphasis on reading for detailed comprehension.

Each correct answer in Part 2 receives 1 mark.

This is a matching task comprising one text and five questions, which are often descriptions of people's requirements. Candidates are required to match each question to an appropriate part of the text, labelled A-H. (As there are only five questions, some of the options act as distractors.) The testing focus of this part is vocabulary and meaning, using skimming and scanning skills.

PART 3: Matching

In this part, there is an emphasis on interpreting visual information.

DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Each correct answer in Part 3 receives 1 mark.

This task consists of eight graphs or charts (or one or more graphics with eight distinct elements) and five questions. Each question is a description of a particular graphic (or element of a graphic) and candidates are expected to match the questions to their corresponding graphs, which are labelled A-H.

PART 4: Right/Wrong/Doesn't say

This part tests the candidate's ability to locate detailed factual information.

Each correct answer in Part 4 receives 1 mark.

This task consists of a text accompanied by seven 3-option multiple-choice questions. Each question presents a statement and candidates are expected to indicate whether the statement is A Right or B Wrong according to the text, or whether the information is not given in the text (C Doesn't say). Candidates are not expected to understand every word in the text but they should be able to pick out salient points and infer meaning where words in the text are unfamiliar. The questions refer to factual information in the text, but candidates are required to do some processing in order to answer the questions correctly.

PART 5: Multiple choice

This part tests candidates' reading for gist and specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 5 receives 1 mark.

This part presents a single text accompanied by six multiple-choice comprehension questions. The text is informative and is often taken from a leaflet or a newspaper or magazine article.

Candidates are expected to employ more complex reading strategies in this task, in that they should demonstrate their ability to extract relevant information, to read for gist and detail, to scan the text for specific information, and to understand the purpose of the writer and the audience for which the text is intended.

PART 6 Multiple-choice cloze

This part tests candidates' grammatical accuracy and understanding of text structure.

Each correct answer in Part 6 receives 1 mark.

This is a multiple-choice cloze test. Candidates have to select the correct word from three options to complete 12 gaps. This part has a predominantly grammatical focus and tests candidates' understanding of the general and detailed meaning of a text, and in particular their ability to analyse structural patterns.

PART 7: Note completion

This part tests candidates' ability to transfer information.

Each correct answer in Part 7 receives 1 mark.

Candidates are given two short texts, for example a memo and an advertisement, and are asked to complete a form based on this material. There are five gaps, which should be completed with a word, a number or a short phrase. In this part, candidates are tested on their ability to extract relevant information and complete a form accurately.

For this part, candidates need to transfer their answers in capital letters to an answer sheet.

WRITING

PART 1: This part tests the candidate's ability to produce an internal communication in response to input.

Task type and focus

An internal company communication; this means a piece of communication with a colleague or colleagues within the company on a business-related matter; the delivery medium may be a note, message, memo or email.

The range of functions in the task includes rearranging appointments, asking for permission and giving instructions.

Task format

Candidates are asked to produce a concise piece of internal company communication of between 30 and 40 words, using a written prompt.

The text must be produced in the form of a note, message, memo or email. Candidates are given the layout of memos and emails (e.g. to/from/date/subject) on the question paper, and need not copy this out as part of their answer.

The rubric specifies the reason for writing and the target reader, and bullet points explain what content points have to be included. Relevant ideas for one or more of these points will have to be invented by the candidate.

PART 2: This part tests the candidate's ability to produce a piece of business correspondence in response to input.

Task type and focus

A piece of business correspondence; this means correspondence with somebody outside the company (e.g. a customer or supplier) on a business-related matter; the delivery medium may be letter, fax or email.

The range of functions in the task includes apologising and offering compensation, making or altering reservations, dealing with requests and giving information about a product.

Task format

Candidates are asked to produce an extended piece of business correspondence of between 60 and 80 words. This task involves the processing of a short text, such as a letter or advertisement, in order to respond to it. A number of bulleted content points below the text clearly indicate what should be included in the answer. Some of this information will need to be invented by the candidate.

Where the delivery medium specified for a Part 2 answer is a letter, candidates need not include postal addresses in their answer. Similarly, where the delivery medium specified is an email, candidates need not include to/from/subject details. Although the use of some key words is inevitable, candidates should not 'lift' phrases from the question paper to use in their answers. They would not receive credit for the language in these phrases.

B1 Preliminary Listening

PART 1: 3-option multiple choice

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 1 receives 1 mark.

A series of eight short conversations or monologues: each heard twice.

The eight questions in this part of the paper are 3-option multiple-choice questions. For each question, candidates hear a short conversation or monologue, typically lasting around 15 to 30 seconds. Each monologue or dialogue is repeated on the recording in order to give candidates a chance to check their answers. The multiple-choice options may be textual or they may be in the form of pictures, graphs or diagrams.

In the extracts in Part 1, candidates are being tested on their understanding of spoken English used in a range of situations and on their ability to extract factual information.

Alternatively, they may have to identify a trend in a graph, establish the speaker's reason for phoning, or identify feelings and opinions. In every case it will be necessary for candidates to follow the conversation closely.

PART 2: Note completion

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 2 receives 1 mark.

Short telephone conversation: heard twice.

This part consists of a short conversation, typically lasting around a minute and a half, which contains factual information. On the question paper there is a form, table, chart or set of notes with seven gaps where information is missing. Candidates have to fill in each of the gaps. The answers may include dates, prices, percentages or figures. This part has a numerical focus and sometimes there are names that are spelled out on the recording; answers to these questions have to be written with correct spelling.

PART 3: Note completion

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 3 receives 1 mark.

Monologue: heard twice.

Candidates hear a monologue. On the question paper there is a set of notes or a form with gaps. There are seven gaps to fill in and the answers may be one or two words. On occasion, the key to one of the gaps may be a date.

PART 4: 3-option multiple choice

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for gist and for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 4 receives 1 mark.

Conversation/interview/discussion: heard twice.

This part, which lasts about 3 minutes, contains a longer listening text which generally takes the form of an interview, or a discussion between two or possibly more speakers. There are eight 3-option multiple-choice questions on the question paper and these are always in a written format. In this part of the Listening component, candidates are being tested on their ability to understand the gist of a longer text and to extract detailed and specific information as required by the questions. They may also be tested on the speakers' opinions.

B1 Preliminary
Speaking

PART 1 : Interview

This part tests the candidates' ability to respond to questions and to express opinions. In the first part of the test, the interlocutor addresses each candidate in turn and asks them questions about themselves and their opinions. The questions will be slightly different for each candidate, and candidates are not addressed in strict sequence. In this part of the test, candidates are being tested on their ability to talk briefly about themselves, to provide concise information on where they come from and their job/studies. Candidates are then required to perform simple functions such as agreeing and disagreeing, and expressing opinions and preferences in the second part of Part 1, which focuses on a business-related topic.

PART 2: Long turn

This part tests the candidates' ability to sustain a 'long turn'.

The second part of the test is a 'mini-presentation'. In this part, each candidate is given a choice of two topics and has 1 minute to prepare a piece of extended speech lasting approximately 1 minute. After each candidate has finished speaking the next candidate is asked which of the bullet points they think is the most important. In this part of the test candidates are being tested on their ability to sustain their talk accurately and appropriately.

PART 3: Collaborative task

This part tests the candidates' ability to communicate with one another, negotiate, initiate, and respond in an appropriate way. The third part of the test is a conversation between the candidates. The interlocutor outlines a scenario and provides prompts in the form of black and white pictures or written text to help the candidates. The candidates are asked to speak for about 2 minutes. The interlocutor supports the conversation, as appropriate, and then asks further questions related to the main theme. In this part of the test, candidates are being tested on their ability to interact appropriately using relevant functional language and strategies.

Examination tasks/syllabus

B1 Preliminary Reading and Writing

READING

PART 1: Multiple choice

In this part, there is an emphasis on understanding short real-world notices, messages, etc.

Each correct answer in Part 1 receives 1 mark.

In this part there are five short texts, each of which is accompanied by a multiple-choice question containing three options. In all cases the information will be brief and clear, and the difficulty of the task will not lie in understanding context but in identifying or interpreting meaning.

A wide variety of text types, representative of those likely to be encountered in international business, can appear in this part, for example, emails, advertisements, internet newsflashes.

Each text will be complete and have a recognisable context.

PART 2 : Matching

In this part, there is an emphasis on reading for detailed comprehension.

Each correct answer in Part 2 receives 1 mark.

This is a matching task comprising one text and five questions, which are often descriptions of people's requirements. Candidates are required to match each question to an appropriate part of the text, labelled A-H. (As there are only five questions, some of the options act as distractors.) The testing focus of this part is vocabulary and meaning, using skimming and scanning skills.

PART 3: Matching

In this part, there is an emphasis on interpreting visual information.

Each correct answer in Part 3 receives 1 mark.

This task consists of eight graphs or charts (or one or more graphics with eight distinct elements) and five questions. Each question is a description of a particular graphic (or element of a graphic) and candidates are expected to match the questions to their corresponding graphs, which are labelled A-H.

PART 4: Right/Wrong/Doesn't say

This part tests the candidate's ability to locate detailed factual information.

Each correct answer in Part 4 receives 1 mark.

This task consists of a text accompanied by seven 3-option multiple-choice questions. Each question presents a statement and candidates are expected to indicate whether the statement is A Right or B Wrong according to the text, or whether the information is not given in the text (C Doesn't say). Candidates are not expected to understand every word in the text but they should be able to pick out salient points and infer meaning where words in the text are unfamiliar. The questions refer to factual information in the text, but candidates are required to do some processing in order to answer the questions correctly.

PART 5: Multiple choice

This part tests candidates' reading for gist and specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 5 receives 1 mark.

This part presents a single text accompanied by six multiple-choice comprehension questions. The text is informative and is often taken from a leaflet or a newspaper or magazine article.

Candidates are expected to employ more complex reading strategies in this task, in that they should demonstrate their ability to extract relevant information, to read for gist and detail, to scan the text for specific information, and to understand the purpose of the writer and the audience for which the text is intended.

PART 6 Multiple-choice cloze

This part tests candidates' grammatical accuracy and understanding of text structure.

Each correct answer in Part 6 receives 1 mark.

This is a multiple-choice cloze test. Candidates have to select the correct word from three options to complete 12 gaps. This part has a predominantly grammatical focus and tests candidates' understanding of the general and detailed meaning of a text, and in particular their ability to analyse structural patterns.

PART 7: Note completion

This part tests candidates' ability to transfer information.

Each correct answer in Part 7 receives 1 mark.

Candidates are given two short texts, for example a memo and an advertisement, and are asked to complete a form based on this material. There are five gaps, which should be completed with a word, a number or a short phrase. In this part, candidates are tested on their ability to extract relevant information and complete a form accurately.

For this part, candidates need to transfer their answers in capital letters to an answer sheet.

WRITING

PART 1: This part tests the candidate's ability to produce an internal communication in response to input.

Task type and focus

An internal company communication; this means a piece of communication with a colleague or colleagues within the company on a business-related matter; the delivery medium may be a note, message, memo or email.

The range of functions in the task includes rearranging appointments, asking for permission and giving instructions.

Task format

Candidates are asked to produce a concise piece of internal company communication of between 30 and 40 words, using a written prompt.

The text must be produced in the form of a note, message, memo or email. Candidates are given the layout of memos and emails (e.g. to/from/date/subject) on the question paper, and need not copy this out as part of their answer.

The rubric specifies the reason for writing and the target reader, and bullet points explain what content points have to be included. Relevant ideas for one or more of these points will have to be invented by the candidate.

PART 2: This part tests the candidate's ability to produce a piece of business correspondence in response to input.

Task type and focus

A piece of business correspondence; this means correspondence with somebody outside the company (e.g. a customer or supplier) on a business-related matter; the delivery medium may be letter, fax or email.

The range of functions in the task includes apologising and offering compensation, making or altering reservations, dealing with requests and giving information about a product.

Task format

Candidates are asked to produce an extended piece of business correspondence of between 60 and 80 words. This task involves the processing of a short text, such as a letter or advertisement, in order to respond to it. A number of bulleted content points below the text clearly indicate what should be included in the answer. Some of this information will need to be invented by the candidate.

Where the delivery medium specified for a Part 2 answer is a letter, candidates need not include postal addresses in their answer. Similarly, where the delivery medium specified is an email, candidates need not include to/from/subject details. Although the use of some key words is inevitable, candidates should not 'lift' phrases from the question paper to use in their answers. They would not receive credit for the language in these phrases.

B1 Preliminary Listening

PART 1: 3-option multiple choice

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 1 receives 1 mark.

A series of eight short conversations or monologues: each heard twice.

The eight questions in this part of the paper are 3-option multiple-choice questions. For each question, candidates hear a short conversation or monologue, typically lasting around 15 to 30 seconds. Each monologue or dialogue is repeated on the recording in order to give candidates a chance to check their answers. The multiple-choice options may be textual or they may be in the form of pictures, graphs or diagrams.

In the extracts in Part 1, candidates are being tested on their understanding of spoken English used in a range of situations and on their ability to extract factual information.

Alternatively, they may have to identify a trend in a graph, establish the speaker's reason for phoning, or identify feelings and opinions. In every case it will be necessary for candidates to follow the conversation closely.

PART 2: Note completion

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 2 receives 1 mark.

Short telephone conversation: heard twice.

This part consists of a short conversation, typically lasting around a minute and a half, which contains factual information. On the question paper there is a form, table, chart or set of notes with seven gaps where information is missing. Candidates have to fill in each of the gaps. The answers may include dates, prices, percentages or figures. This part has a numerical focus and sometimes there are names that are spelled out on the recording; answers to these questions have to be written with correct spelling.

PART 3: Note completion

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 3 receives 1 mark.

Monologue: heard twice.

Candidates hear a monologue. On the question paper there is a set of notes or a form with gaps. There are seven gaps to fill in and the answers may be one or two words. On occasion, the key to one of the gaps may be a date.

PART 4: 3-option multiple choice

This part tests the candidates' ability to listen for gist and for specific information.

Each correct answer in Part 4 receives 1 mark.

Conversation/interview/discussion: heard twice.

This part, which lasts about 3 minutes, contains a longer listening text which generally takes the form of an interview, or a discussion between two or possibly more speakers. There are eight 3-option multiple-choice questions on the question paper and these are always in a written format. In this part of the Listening component, candidates are being tested on their ability to understand the gist of a longer text and to extract detailed and specific information as required by the questions. They may also be tested on the speakers' opinions.

B1 Preliminary
Speaking

PART 1 : Interview

This part tests the candidates' ability to respond to questions and to express opinions. In the first part of the test, the interlocutor addresses each candidate in turn and asks them questions about themselves and their opinions. The questions will be slightly different for each candidate, and candidates are not addressed in strict sequence. In this part of the test, candidates are being tested on their ability to talk briefly about themselves, to provide concise information on where they come from and their job/studies. Candidates are then required to perform simple functions such as agreeing and disagreeing, and expressing opinions and preferences in the second part of Part 1, which focuses on a business-related topic.

PART 2: Long turn

This part tests the candidates' ability to sustain a 'long turn'.

The second part of the test is a 'mini-presentation'. In this part, each candidate is given a choice of two topics and has 1 minute to prepare a piece of extended speech lasting approximately 1 minute. After each candidate has finished speaking the next candidate is asked which of the bullet points they think is the most important. In this part of the test candidates are being tested on their ability to sustain their talk accurately and appropriately.

PART 3: Collaborative task

This part tests the candidates' ability to communicate with one another, negotiate, initiate, and respond in an appropriate way. The third part of the test is a conversation between the candidates. The interlocutor outlines a scenario and provides prompts in the form of black and white pictures or written text to help the candidates. The candidates are asked to speak for about 2 minutes. The interlocutor supports the conversation, as appropriate, and then asks further questions related to the main theme. In this part of the test, candidates are being tested on their ability to interact appropriately using relevant functional language and strategies.

- Documentaries (technical & non technical)

Every week either the students get to watch a documentary or a movie. these documentaries may be about sci-fi or eminent personalities or incidents in the world history.. we will have a collection of all of these but a serious environment is required for digestion.

- Movies

Every week we will have an inspirational movie shown to the students. Hostelites & localites logistics have to worked out. But a very effective way to impart English in the masses.

- Novels

Every month a short novel will be given to a team in the class. we will try to utilize the present stock of books in the library. At least 15 unique novels per class. we can do this activity till the 2nd internals and then close it down.

- Magazines

Every week they need to browse through a magazine .. we could have two reading sections for the first years. (nxt to the deans office and symmetrical to that - a reading lobby - newspapers and magazines)

- Cartoons

- comics

- Group discussions

Current typical interview topics will give them the required confidence.. last semester we introduced this in the BACCE - PHC course .. it was a great inspiration for many.

- Sharing ideas

Last 4-5 min of our session is reserved for students to shell out their ideas / plans /weird thoughts a very interesting thing

- Games
