University Level Conference on Clean India

Day: 09 August 2019, Friday
Venue: Swami Vivekananda Auditorium, Ramakrishna Mission, Mangaluru

A Novel Initiative by Ramakrishna Mission On Special request from Govt. of India

आत्मनो मोक्षार्थं जगद्धिताय च ॥

Dear friends,

It gladdens our heart to share with you that Swachh Bharat Abhiyan launched by our Ashram in response to special appeal made by the Honourable Prime Minister has entered the 5th & final Phase. In this regard, we organised 'Swachh Soch Seminars' which tried to create awareness on cleanliness among students in 50 colleges covering around 15,000 students of Dakshina Kannada and Udupi Districts.

As a part of this Abhiyan, we wish to organize one-day University Level Conference in our Ashrama auditorium on the 9th August, Friday. This will also be concluding programme of series of Swachh Soch Seminars held in different colleges. Expert resource persons of international repute will be interacting with the youths about the problems of waste generation and provide legitimate solutions to be inculcated by younger generation. This includes question-answer session, oath taking, feedback sharing and related activities. Youths will also have the unique opportunity of interacting with achievers and people who have positively contributed towards Swachh Bharath.

We cordially invite you along with your friends to attend the programme. The details of the programme are given overleaf.

With love and best wishes

Yours in the service of the Lord,
Swami Jitakamananda
Secretary, Ramakrishna Mission, Mangaluru

"The process of learning is to read, understand, recall and relax"

INTRODUCTION OF THE GUEST:

Dr. C.R. Chandrashekar is a senior faculty member of National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences, Bangalore since 1975. In addition to his responsibilities of teaching, training and research, he has been actively involved in dissemination of information about mental health, hospitals, health professionals, treatment methods, etc., with the objective of stimulating scientific temper, dispelling misconceptions and including correct attitude towards mental disorders. He is a regular columnist in 'Mangala', a Kannada weekly and has written over 850 popular science articles in different magazines and periodicals. He has published 96 books in Kannada and 15 in English, several of these books has been translated into Urdu and Telugu. He is a sought-after speaker by medical, educational, industrial and non-governmental institutions and has conducted over 100 discussions/dialogues every year and has delivered over 1000 popular science lectures. He has given talks over radio and interviews on television on different aspects of behavioral sciences.

REPORT:

"I was approached by an NGO which asked me to train their grassroots level volunteers in counselling," he said. "I rose to the challenge at once." That led to his founding the Prasanna Centre in Basavanagudi in 1980, where he offered free medical help, held workshops on stress management and the importance of mental health. He even developed a training module for lay counselling, which is open to anybody who wishes to make a difference. "Our only condition is that they provide services on a volunteer basis and not use their skills to make a profit," he said. So far, he has trained over 5000 lay counsellors and 2000 teachers in student counselling as well. Samadhana, he says, aspires to be a safe space, one that people can approach without being encumbered by the stigma that is still attached to seeking out mental healthcare professionals. "People are still hesitant to approach centres like NIMHANS, that's what prompted me to start Samadhana in the first place." How does he achieve this? "Through education, of course," he said promptly. He uses his proclivity for writing to spread awareness in a society steeped in superstition. "I give workshops and talks and demonstrate, as far as possible, that counselling interventions work. People come to me on their own now, asking for help."

REPORT: This era is called education Era.

During world war, Winston Churchill said this next era will be knowledgeable, wisdom. The success will be for one who empowers the mind. If knowledge is with enemy, make effort to go there and gain it. To acquisition of knowledge, befriend knowledge. Information is not knowledge; enriching knowledge by thoughts is the right process. Enrich knowledge by values, moral and culture is the right process.

Russel quoted "mankind will not survive with only knowledge, only by transforming knowledge to wisdom will the mankind survive." Steven Hawkins said knowledge is obtained from "Cognitive - intellectual domain, psychomotor domain, Affected domain". Learn to be and become. - achievements of individual should be introspected.

Population: 134 crore in India. India needs population control and improved health facility. Pollution (14 cities in top 100 in India)
Literacy rate (24/100) is uneducated. Education lot does not have quality education. (82 out of 100 drop out at higher primary education)
Social issues - only by quality education will be able to eradicate.

Steps for that

- Health after wealth. Priority works first
- Prepare relentlessly

Start by simple daily practice

- 1) Punctuality (reach minutes early to class)
- 2) Concentration (professor lectures)
- 3) Curiosity for home work.
- 4) Learn today what will be taught tomorrow.

- One is responsible for his own actions.
- Surrounded yourself with great people. This will be impact our way of learning.
- First think, reflect and then act.
- Under promise and over deliver.
- Develop ourselves with strong beliefs.

(One who does not trust on oneself, he will not be believed by anyone in this world)

- Loyalty in one's own path.
- Fearless living in doing right.

"No future for anyone who mortgages his own mind"

Disease only
-polluted air water and food

(No constipation, breath clean air, clean urine and healthy sweating will indicate disease free life)
